

STEEL TRUST METHODS ARE DENOUNCED BY MAJORITY REPORT OF HOUSE PROBERS

COMPETITION STIFLED BY COMBINE

Asserts Prices Are Controlled by Railroad Ownership and Ore Monopoly

"GARY DINNERS" SCORED AS POOL SUBSTITUTES

Steel Trust Stock "Deluged"—Employees' Living Conditions "Are Revolting"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Fifteen months investigation of the "Steel Trust" by the special committee of the house, were summarized in reports submitted to that body today—one set condemning the United States Steel Corporation as a gigantic monopoly in restraint of trade, the other, although accusing it of sharp practices, holding that it is not a monopoly. All the reports submit voluminous suggestions for amendment and rehabilitation of the anti-trust laws, based on evidence developed during the hearings.

The reports all refrain directly from expressing the opinion that the United States Steel Corporation has violated the Sherman law. An agreement to omit reference to this phase of their investigation was reached because of the present pendency of the government's suit to dissolve the corporation. The majority report, however, bristles with denunciation of the combine's methods of "stifling competition," of "extorting monopoly," and of "controlling prices" through ownership of railroads and practical monopoly of all the ore fields now available.

The so-called "Gary Dinners"—at which the heads of all the steel corporations' subsidiaries met with the chairman of the board of directors, Judge E. H. Gary—are bitterly scored in the main report.

"We think the conclusion is irresistible," the report says, "that the Gary dinners were instituted as a means of conveying to the entire steel and iron industry information as to the attitude of the United States Steel Corporation upon the question of output and prices, and of impressing upon all engaged in the industry that it was the part of wisdom and prudence to govern themselves accordingly."

"We further believe that by this means prices were maintained, output restricted, territory divided, competition stifled and trade restrained, just as certainly, just as effectively, and just as unlawfully as has been done under the discarded pooling arrangements of former years."

Three bills, outlining trust curbs, were presented with the report. One provides for amendment of the Sherman law to place the burden of proof upon defendant corporations charged with restraint of trade. Control of 30 per cent of any business is made prima facie evidence of guilt. Another provision gives each state and any injured individuals the right to bring injunction suits against a trust.

A second bill is designed to prevent "interlocking directorates" among railroad and industrial corporations. It is proposed to prohibit any officer or employee of an industrial corporation in the coal industry or manufacturer of structural steel and rolling stock, from acting in a similar capacity for a railroad.

Another bill seeks divorce of industrial and common carriers by prohibiting mining or manufacturing companies from owning stock in any carrier.

The committee also recommends that the Bureau of Corporations report to congress in addition to the president, providing publicity of corporate combinations.

Chairman Stanley, of Kentucky, Representative Bartlett, of Georgia, McGillicuddy, of Maine, and Beall, of Texas, all denounce in all of these recommendations. Representative Littleton, Democrat, of New York, dissents only from the bill changing the burden of proof.

That J. P. Morgan and Co. received a fee of $62,500,000 for underwriting the steel syndicate is asserted.

"The Steel Corporation's capitalization is $1,745,784,244.49," the report declares, but this sum, huge as it is, in no degree determines its actual power."

Continuing the report cites where the vast holdings of directors of the "trust" in other corporations totals up into staggering millions.

The Morgan-Gary-Perkins plan for federal incorporation and price fixing, the Democrats declare is "semi-social-

TWO MINORITY REPORTS FROM REPS. YOUNG AND STERLING

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Representatives H. Olin Young, of Michigan, and John A. Sterling, of Illinois, presented separate minority reports. Young particularly discussed the objects aimed at in formation of the U. S. Steel Corporation, and denied that the "Trust" had profited through their own machinations, in favorable railroad rates. Sterling declared that he could not agree with the minority report's opinion that the true remedy for industrial evils did not lie in dissolution of the combines. Complete dissolution, he said, was the most adequate reform.

Sterling declared he heartily favored governmental regulation of corporations, and federal incorporation as the first step.

"The extent to which fictitious values have been created by over-capitalization of corporate property has shaken public confidence in corporate securities and made the public mind distrustful of large business enterprises," the report asserted. "This policy has cheated both the investor and the consumer."

istic," and the present situation is best remedied by publicity and strict enforcement of laws.

"Had the character of the Steel Corporation been known at the time of the absorption of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Co., it is highly improbable that the chief executive would in 20 minutes have given his consent to a merger fraught with infinite injury to the steel industry and the public alike," says the report.

Bitterly criticizing Roosevelt for this merger, the report professes its inability to understand how a panic which resisted the utmost endeavors of Morgan and Rockefeller to quell, should suddenly have passed away with the absorption of a few paltry millions, at Roosevelt's permission.

Teh Steel Trust was not watered, the report says. "It was deluged," Stanley epigrammatically puts it. The report purports to give the "Story of Steel" from the first hearth furnace down to the big mills of the present day.

That the trust is inimical to labor unions and its employees live under conditions "too revolting to detail" is asserted.

REBELS TURN BACK MORMON TRAINS

Distribute Army Rations—Federals Prepare to Attack Juarez and Casas Grandes

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 2.—The rebels south of Casas Grandes turned back the Mexican Northwestern train today bearing the Mormon refugees, distributing army rations among them.

Two thousand federals have reached Madera. They are prepared to take Juarez and then attack the rebels at Casas Grandes.

"Let Presidio Move It"

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 2.—Scores of messages have been sent from El Paso and other border towns appealing to the United States to take steps to protect Americans in Mexico.

In many instances messages are being sent in the names of entire communities, as in the case of one from Marfa addressed to Congressman W. R. Smith. The message said:

"If the United States cannot handle the situation, let Presidio county handle it."

PROGRESSIVE REPUBLICANS MAY LOSE THEIR VOTES

Every Progressive Republican in Orange County who has registered as a "Progressive Republican" or as a "Progressive" or as an "Independent" will lose his vote for Roosevelt unless he notifies the county clerk TOMORROW to change his party designation to plain "Republican." And of course if you have registered without giving your party designation you must give it in TOMORROW or you cannot vote at the primaries.

Fortunately there are but few registrations giving the party designation as Independent or Progressive or Progressive Republican. Only those insisting upon or demanding such designation are so regarded. County Clerk Williams instructed all his deputies to instruct voters correctly in this matter, and Mr. Williams said today that he thought not more than twenty or twenty-five voters were registered with any other than straight, legal party designations.

Judge West Does Not Think That Hemstreet is Deserving of Any Leniency

SENDS A REPLY TO BEACH PETITIONERS

Says Prisoner Used Every Lawful Means to Defeat the Ends of Justice

In reply to a petition from Newport Beach citizens asking that C. S. Hemstreet be given parole or the sentence against him suspended, Superior Judge West has sent a statement in which he says that the law leaves him helpless to comply with the request, but that even if he could legally do so he does not think that Hemstreet is entitled to clemency of the court.

Hemstreet is now in the county jail, serving a sentence of 150 days. He gave Deputy Sheriff Squires a check for $300 to cover the judgment of $300 against him, that sum being the amount of the fine.

The petition asking for clemency for Hemstreet was signed by many of the prominent residents of Newport Beach, among them W. A. Cornelius, city recorder, who heads the petition, and to whom Judge West addresses the following reply:

"My Dear Sir:—The petition, headed by yourself and signed by sixty-six other citizens of your city, is received.

"You ask me to suspend the sentence of $300 fine and 150 days in jail, imposed upon C. S. Hemstreet, and give as a reason the following: 'That up to the time of Mr. Hemstreet's conviction by the district attorney two years ago he was a good citizen in every way, except his persistent violation of the liquor laws. Since the conviction he has gone out of business in every way and is a highly respected citizen of this city. He says he is through with the business for good, and we believe that the public interest will be better served by allowing him his freedom by having him placed on parole, than by having him serve his sentence.'

"I am glad Mr. Hemstreet has gone out of business and is being good, because it is laudable on the part of any citizen to refrain from breaking the laws.

"In the first place, the judgment above referred to is beyond the control of this court, or any other court—it has become final—and I am as helpless in regard to granting the relief you ask as you yourselves.

"And, in the second place, I am persuaded that you do not know all the circumstances connected with this case, and in order that you may be more fully advised, I will say that Mr. Hemstreet was arrested upon a complaint filed in the justice's court of Huntington Beach township on or about the 7th day of August, 1910, charging him with the violation of section 397b of the penal code of this state for the crime of selling, giving and delivering intoxicating drugs to one Victor Everett, a minor child of the age of 15 years.

"Mr. Hemstreet said he was not guilty, stood trial, and was represented by able counsel who contested every step, but was found guilty, and by reason of the fact that the justice did not pronounce judgment within the statutory time he was granted a new trial upon appeal to the superior court of this county. In the superior court he was tried before a jury of twelve men and was convicted, and the court pronounced the judgment referred to in your petition—that he pay a fine of $300 and be confined in the county jail for 150 days.

"He was not yet satisfied with the result of his case and took it up to the Appellate court on habeas corpus and after a hearing the Appellate court affirmed the decision of the superior court by dismissing his writ and remanding him to the sheriff of this county.

"Mr. Hemstreet then made an effort to get the case in the supreme court of this state and this application was also denied, and after the judgment had been affirmed in all the courts to which he had access by appeal or otherwise, he then refused to surrender himself in satisfaction of the judgment or to pay or even offer to pay the $300 assessed against him, and it became necessary to issue a bench warrant and have him arrested and incarcerated in the county jail in satisfaction of said judgment.

"At no time from the time of his arrest in the justice's court until the Supreme Court of California had passed upon his final effort did he ever suggest to this court, or any court, or to the district attorney of this county, that he would refrain from the violation of the law, or ask for leniency."

DECLARES THAT HE WILL NOT RESIGN

Sturges Tells School Board Members He is Going to Stay on the Job to End

SAYS WHEN SHOCKED HE SAID TOO MUCH

The Matter is to Come Up at Another Meeting of Board of Education Tonight

A Burnside Sturges is not going to resign as architect employed by the board of education to draw plans for the polytechnic high school. He won't resign, not by a long jump.

At least, he says he will not resign. He says he is going to stay right on the job.

Sturges was here yesterday afternoon, and he had a lawyer with him. Sturges was mindful of the fact that the school board on Tuesday evening instructed the secretary, Mrs. W. M. Smart, to ask Sturges to resign, and to proceed to make a settlement with the school board, a meeting to be held tonight for that purpose. Notice to that effect was mailed to Sturges by the secretary.

Yesterday Sturges and his companion, Attorney Munholland, visited four members of the school board separately. These four were W. L. Duggan, J. M. Cain, Mrs. W. M. Smart and Mrs. E. B. Norman. The other member, H. G. Dean, was in Los Angeles. Whether or not Sturges saw members of the advisory committee does not appear.

To the members of the school board, Sturges stated emphatically that he would not follow the course suggested by the school board. He said it is his intention to go ahead with the work, and complete his engagement. He intimated that he would proceed just as though there had been no stir-up, no Kennedy, no life insurance policy and no request to resign. Sturges seemed to feel quite certain of his ground.

His companion was not introduced as an attorney. Sturges did the talking.

While here Sturges stated that the plans for the polytechnic high school are practically completed, and that he has practically earned his full commission for the preparation of the plans. He stated that the plans were so nearly finished that he had written a letter to City Superintendent Cranston, asking him to go to Sturges' office and look the plans over.

President Duggan stated that Sturges is ready to prove that the affidavit made by Mr. A. Smith, an operative of the Blair Detective Agency, is false. Smith stated in his affidavit that he went to Sturges' house, engaged him in conversation in regard to drawing plans for an imaginary bungalow, and drew him into a discussion of life insurance. In that discussion Sturges said that he had taken out life insurance from Duggan in order to do business with "these people." Sturges told Duggan that he could prove the affidavit insofar as it concerns statements concerning the life insurance is false.

He says that there were members of his family who can and will testify that the affidavit is false," said Duggan. "His family was in another room or around a partition or something of that sort so that they were not seen, but they heard just what was said."

Duggan said Kennedy need never have had any talk with Sturges about the insurance in order to have gained knowledge of it, for Kennedy was in Sturges' office when Duggan and Sturges talked over the provisions of various policies.

To another member of the school board, Sturges said that he had said things at last Friday night's meeting that he ought not to have said. That was the meeting at which the mess first had an airing, when Kennedy got up in school board meeting and wanted to know if Sturges was telling the truth when he told Kennedy that if he got appointed superintendent of building that one thing he would have to do would be to take a life insurance policy from Duggan.

Sturges immediately replied in no uncertain terms, declaring Kennedy's statement to be a "traitor trick," saying Kennedy had cost him money, that nobody else at Long Beach would loan him money, that Kennedy was contradicted on the witness-stand by seven witnesses, that work constructed under Kennedy's supervision at Long Beach was proving defective.

It was then, it will be remembered, that Mrs. Norman made the query that showed up a phase in the situation that figuratively speaking, hit Sturges squarely between the eyes. Mrs. Norman asked:

"Mr. Sturges, if you know Mr. Kennedy was incompetent and unreliable, why did you recommend him to us as thoroughly competent to be superintendent of the building of our high school?"

Sturges' reply was that he wanted to give Kennedy a chance to make good; and was "dead game."

This was the situation to which

CHARGES ARE HURLED AT FORD

Darrow's Counsel Accused Ford of Trickery and Malicious Misrepresentation

DARROW KEPT COOL IN GRILLING QUESTIONING

Closest Detail Gone Into Over Turner Telegrams and Jury Lists

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—Charges of trickery and malicious misrepresentation were hurled at Assistant District Attorney Ford by Clarence Darrow's counsel today while Ford was cross-examining Darrow.

The state endeavored to show that the telegrams between Darrow and Detective Turner bear out Detective Biddinger's testimony regarding an agreement between him and Darrow as to the getting of evidence in the McNamara case.

Darrow kept cool throughout the examination. He managed to make replies of little satisfaction to the state.

The district attorney produced two alleged lists of McNamara veniemen with certain names indicated by check marks and asked Darrow if he gave them to Franklin before the detective was arrested.

"I cannot identify the documents," said Darrow. There was argument on this point as to whether it was legitimate examination. The court permitted the prosecution to repeat the question. Darrow said he had never seen the paper before. Ford then asked if Darrow had not compared it with some other paper during the argument. Darrow said not for the purpose of refreshing his memory. Ford made a demand for the paper that Darrow had looked at, but was unable to obtain it.

Turner Telegrams Play Part

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—Assistant District Attorney Ford today plunged into the relations between Clarence Darrow and the Burns detective, Guy Biddinger, who testified for the State that he was bribed by Darrow to give up some keys, books, documents and other evidence seized in the Indianapolis raid when John J. McNamara was arrested.

Darrow admitted sending a telegram to W. J. Turner, a detective whom he employed in the Moyer-Haywood-Pettibone trial and who brought about an introduction between Darrow and Biddinger on Sept. 8, 1911. The message was: "Would not promise except to do right for anything of value."

The witness was then allowed to read to the jury a telegram which put a different construction on the Turner telegram. It read: "Send letter containing copies of matters.—C. S. Darrow." It was read to show that the previous telegrams did not refer to dynamite and other things in the McNamara trial.

Darrow denied that he told Franklin he would give him more money if the case should be won than if lost.

It was expected the Darrow jury would go over the scene of the alleged bribery of George Lockwood at Third and Los Angeles streets some time late today. Judge Hutton and the attorneys on both sides went over the ground before court opened, and also visited the saloon where the detectives were placed when the money was passed.

FLOODS IN NEVADA FROM CLOUDBURSTS

Mazuma Knee-Deep in Three Feet of Water—Mining District is Deluged

RENO, Aug. 2.—Reports were received here from Lovelock, thirty miles from Mazuma, last evening, that the Seven Troughs mining district was again the scene of a succession of floods as the result of cloudbursts, which swept the canyon, not only Wednesday night, but again yesterday afternoon. Telephone communication between Seven Troughs and Mazuma has been cut off. A late wire from Lovelock says that three feet of water covers Mazuma and only two automobiles succeeded in getting anywhere near the deluged canyon. Shortly after midnight yesterday morning a five-foot wall of water came pouring down the canyon and the survivors of the recent cloudburst at Seven Troughs are rushing panic-stricken up the hillside.

IN THE JUSTICE COURT

STRONG CASE IS MADE OUT

Smeltzer Japanese Poolroom
Employee Held to Answer
For Stealing Watch

The number of Japanese prosecuted in this county for felonies are few and far between, but K. Tani happens to be one of the few. Tani faces two charges, one stealing $85 from the coat of another Jap at Talbert and the other burglary, the stealing of a watch from S. Nakagami. This morning Tani's preliminary examination on the watch-stealing charge was held, and Tani was ordered by Justice Cox to answer for trial in the superior court.

Nakagami testified to the fact that the watch was stolen from his room at Smeltzer. H. Higuchi, a Japanese barber of Smeltzer, testified to seeing Tani in possession of the watch a short time after it was stolen. Tani told him he bought it three years before for $27.

When the watch was found on Tani here, he said that he bought it from a Mexican for $15. He did not know who the Mexican was nor where he is.

A. H. Lyons and wife, of Fairbury, Neb., visited the family of N. S. Long last week. Fairbury is the former home of the Long family, and this visit from old friends was especially enjoyable to them.

Miss Dahlia Malan and Miss Alma Plavan of Talbert, have been spending a few weeks at the home of Jacques Griset. These young ladies will join Misses Ida Brown, Emma Fisher and Anne Robinson of Santa Ana, in a house party at the beach next week.

Miss Della Giesler will return to her home at Talbert today, after a two weeks' stay in Tustin.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Foster of Pomona will visit their aunt, Mrs. John Dryer, on Saturday.

Wm. Bainbridge and family have moved to an elegant new home at Covina. Mr. and Mrs. Bainbridge have proved themselves to be valuable members of the community here, and their friends have expressed great regret at their going away.

Frank E. Palmer will move into the home just left by Wm. Bainbridge.

Miss Minnie C. Childs has returned from a month's stay at Balboa.

The Misses Davis and Miss Shatto have just returned from a trip to San Gabriel, Catalina, Long Beach and Mt. Lowe.

Messrs. Gaston and Victor Griset are in Los Angeles today on business. These two young men have just finished conducting a three weeks' camp handling the apricots of several large orchards. The fruit from Jacques Griset's own orchard was large and fine and there was always a smile on the faces of the workers when this fruit was brought in.

B. F. Murphy has sold his ranch to a Los Angeles party, and will probably leave Tustin about the first of September.

Mrs. C. E. Utt and family have returned from their outing at Balboa.

Mrs. Sherman Stevens has returned from a two weeks' visit to Ventura.

Dr. Artz and wife, of Los Angeles, will spend a few days next week with Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Artz.

Frank Stearns and Fred Dernock were in Los Angeles on business this week.

Mrs. Methben of Sacramento, and daughter Jean, will be guests of Arthur Lindsey and family next week.

Corn for Horses

It is not safe under any circumstances to pasture horses in stalk fields or to feed them fodder from fields in which the corn was wormy. Great care should be exercised in choosing the corn fed to horses. Often it is not thoroughly cleaned by fanning.

There are too many moldy grains which are too heavy to be separated from the sound corn in this way. The safest method is to pour the shelled corn into water and skim off and throw away all the part that rises to the surface.

Why not have your sewing machine repaired and put in running order while you are at the beach.

LAUNCH IRIS USED A SAIL

Crank-Shaft Broke, and Boat Came Across From Channel to Beach

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 2.—In company with two colored employees, Charles Barton of El Monte, in his gasoline launch Iris, was carried into this city by a strong wind which filled the hastily-rigged sail late Wednesday evening.

The party left San Pedro in the afternoon, intending to visit Catalina Island, when within two miles of their destination, the crank-shaft of the boat broke and the sail was hoisted. When the boat reached here its occupants were ignorant of their whereabouts. They claim to have passed a number of small vessels, none of which noticed their condition. The party went at once to Newport Beach, where they hired a tug to take them and their craft back to San Pedro.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of Southern California held a session at the Methodist camp-meeting grounds yesterday morning, and Mrs. Mae Chisholm Brown of Foo Chow, China, delivered an interesting address. This morning the Home Missionary Society met and heard of the work of its department in this country.

Evangelist Brown's address Wednesday night was of impressive solemnity and entirely without any effort at entertaining his audience. He took as his subject "Prepare to Meet Your God," and nearly thirty men and women answered his appeal by kneeling at the "mourner's bench." Extensive preparations are being made to care for the large attendance which is expected next Sunday, the closing day of the camp-meeting. An attractive musical program and four services during the day and evening will fill in the time of all who attend.

A woman stepped on a live wire on the Pacific Electric railroad track near the camp-meeting grounds yesterday and fell to the ground, unconscious. She was found in a few minutes by J. A. Arrington, father of the wife of Evangelist Brown, and placed on an electric car bound for Los Angeles. She refused to give her name.

GOOD CATCHES IN LAST WEEK

Beaches and Coves Below Corona Del Mar Used During Phosphorus Trouble

(By Victor Walker of Hill & Walker.)

Some of the best catches of the season have been made during the past week in spite of the phosphorus which continues to discolor the water. It may be probable that the general distribution of the phosphorus waters over such a large stretch of surf has forced the fish to seek their old feeding grounds, as new fields clear of the red water are too distant. At any rate, the fish are biting again and this is all that is necessary to get the bait slingers hard at their favorite pastime.

The beaches below Corona Del Mar have often been scenes of some wonderful catches of bass and corbina, but the fishing has proven so uncertain and there is so much hiking attached to the trip that they have not been popular. During the fortnight when surf fishing has been slow at all the favorite resorts anglers report big catches from these beaches.

There is no need for the sportsman to be disappointed in making this trip for the gamey sheephead always abound in the cove and there are numerous places where the caster can stand high on the ledges or rock and drop his bait into holes where a strike is a certainty. The fish is as gamey as any and often carries a part of the outfit with him in his mad rush for the kelp fields outside. These fish range in size from one to twenty-five pounds and can be caught wherever there are kelp fields.

The best fishing ground among these coves is known as Sycamore Canyon and can be reached in about 45 minutes' walk from the ferry, providing the mesa trail is taken. If the angler is keen enough for sport a short distance further will bring him to what is termed Coffee-shell Beach and here he will find as pretty a stretch of surf as ever met the sportsman's eye and a favorite feeding ground for cobina and bass. There are rocks frequently enough in the surf to make it impossible to seine, so the fish have been protected from the nets of unscrupulous fishermen. If this beach was easily accessible thousands of anglers would visit it annually, but its present condition makes it almost unknown to the rod and reel men.

Halibut continue to be caught at Newport and occasionally a few mackerel, but until the phosphorus clears out not much fishing can be expected, as the condition of the water seems to drive deep-water fish from their haunts much quicker than it does the surf fish. It has even effected the trolling and though good catches are being made, there has not been so many fish reported. "Has the red water gone?" is a very familiar expression among the anglers at present.

Sportmen are enthusiastically supporting the new Orange County Rod and Reel Club and 59 members have signed their names to the roll. The first regular monthly meeting of the club will be held Monday night at H. J. Forgy's offices and the tournament committee promises to have a plan outlined for the first tournament and high jinks where all the sinker-shilling fraternity can mingle and get acquainted. Serra, the mecca of rod and reel men, will doubtless be the scene of the first meet and a more ideal place for such a tournament cannot be found on the coast.

The following fishing experts have signed the rod and reel club roll: Earl Glenn, Howard Turner, Victor Walker, M. A. Patton, Dr. Hervey, T. M. Hill, John Luxembourg, Clare Johnson, William M. Titchener, John Nooyen, O. K. Forgy, Dr. G. H. Dobson, Joe Burke, E. K. Gerhardt, Chas. Clayton, T. E. Stephenson, J. F. Britton, Arthur McFadden, L. A. Campbell, F. J. Lewis, C. C. Brown, R. L. MYSTERY OF HUMAN BONES IS CLEARED

Colorado Springs Physician Tells of Using Woman's Arm For Study, in 1898

Los Angeles Examiner: The mystery surrounding the discovery by workmen of the bones of a woman's arm beneath the cottage at 127 West Twenty-eighth street, when the house was being moved Wednesday, was probably cleared up yesterday by the statement made in Colorado Springs, Colo., by Dr. Guy Vineyard, who said he lived in the house fourteen years ago when a medical student, and had once taken home a woman's arm for the purpose of study and dissection.

The statement was made by Dr. Vineyard in response to telegraphic inquiry, after it had been learned that he had at one time lived in the Twenty-eighth street house. He said he does not recall what disposition he made of the bones after he had finished the dissection, but presumed he left them in the house when he left the city in 1908.

He remembered taking the arm home because of a little incident. His sister, he said, had girl friends visiting her, and he remembers handing the human arm, wrapped in paper to the young women to frighten them.

Detectives on the case are inclined to accept Dr. Vineyard's statement as the examination showed that, although the arm had been found in an ash heap beneath the fireplace, it bore no evidence of having been burned.

TAFT'S DEFENSE

Fresno Republican: President Taft's attempted defense of his own nomination will be read with considerable interest by those Republicans who believe that their party should be Republican in form and represent as an organization the purposes and desires of its members. The president gives considerable attention to the question as to whether, step by step, those who started out to engineer his nomination had a legal excuse for putting into effect their own desires. He gives none whatever as to whether his nomination represents the wishes of the members of the Republican party, or even a large and worthy minority of that party.

Were it true, as the president maintains, that the nomination of Taft for another candidacy for president was accomplished in an entirely legal manner, without reference to the moral questions involved, the conclusion could only be that the old time machinery of the party had broken down in so far as it was intended to give expression to the wishes of the members of the party, rather than the wishes of those who found need, for professional or personal reasons, to give their whole time and attention to perverting that machinery to bad uses. The president makes no attempt to show that, by any method of judgment, the members of the party desired him again to run for president. If they did not desire him to run, but the ordinary political processes of the party "regularly" made him the nominee, then the machinery had become corrupt.

By this method of piece by piece justification, President Taft seeks to discredit the first purpose of the whole collection of Roosevelt contests. As a whole they fall into two classes, those relating to delegations from the South where there is no real and active Republican party, and those in the north and west where there is a large citizen body of Republicans, active and interested in the direction of political affairs and keen to realize the position in which they have been placed by their self imposed leaders. In the south, there never has been an opportunity, because of the race question, to make the national Republican principles an issue upon which to go before the people, and the party has consisted largely of those interested solely in the question of apportioning out the federal appointments. The Roosevelt contests were brought in these cases not to show that there was a popular feeling in the south for Roosevelt, or that the Taft delegates were elected in defiance of the rank and file of the party, but to show that there was no popular feeling either way, and that the whole question of the Southern delegates was one of federal patronage. The president having control of this patronage, would of course have the benefit of the "regular" and "legal" votes from the south.

On the other hand, the contests from the north and west were brought on the very issue of "Shall the people rule?" The people of the north were for Roosevelt. In some states they were given no legal opportunity, by the Taft politicians, to express this desire, as in New York. In other states, as in Ohio, they expressed their preference for Roosevelt, but on account of badly drawn laws, this desire was not allowed to affect the "legal" delegations, and Taft made himself the first voice in demanding that the delegates of these states vote in opposition to the vote of the party. And finally, in certain states where, in the ordinary course of events, the people by means of the legal machinery at their hands, would have elected Roosevelt delegations, and did so, the Taft people, as in California, Washington and Arizona, contrived to raise controversies which gave the Taft controlled committee a chance to seat the Taft delegations.

As a dissertation on how to obtain "legally" elected delegations without the approval of the people, the Taft statement is an interesting and enlightening document. But it in no way justifies the present candidacy of Mr. Taft for re-election.

RABIES IN 1911

In 1909 the Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service instituted an investigation as to the frequency of rabies in the United States during the year 1908. All possible sources of information were utilized and complete verification of the cases was attempted in every instance. A comparison with the figures obtained in 1911 would indicate that the infection is on the increase. In 1911, cases were reported from 1381 localities as against 534 in 1908, while there were only ninety-eight deaths in 1911, notwithstanding the largely increased number of localities from which the disease was reported, as compared with 111 deaths in 1908. This is accounted for probably by the large increase in the number of institutions in which the antirabic treatment could be obtained and by the fact that the victims availed themselves more largely of this treatment. In 1908 there were twenty-three institutions in the country where this treatment was administered; in 1911 there were at least forty-two. In addition there are a number of laboratories which supply material for inoculations to practicing physicians. The number of persons known to have taken the treatment in 1908 was about 1500, while in 1911 it was 4625. The figures for 1911 show that the period of incubation in nineteen out of sixty-five cases was between twenty-one and thirty days, this being the greatest number for any given incubation period. Three cases occurred over twelve months after the injury. The average incubation of all cases, excluding those of over one year, was 49.25 days. The decrease in the number of deaths in 1911 as compared with 1908 amounted to nearly 12 per cent. Striking facts brought out in this report are the wider distribution of the infection, its spread on the Pacific coast, which section in 1908 seemed to be entirely free from the disease, and the decreased death-rate owing to better facilities for treatment and better distribution of the antirabic virus. According to the Journal of the American Medical Association, the situation calls for still greater efforts toward the complete eradication of this preventable disease.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS Suggestions to Parents Which if Acted on May Prevent the Disease

Los Angeles Times: Dr. Sheffield of New York, a recognized authority on poliomyelitis, as the disease is scientifically known, said in a recent interview that the prevailing idea that nothing can be done for the unfortunate is not well founded, "if," he says, "the afflicted parts are rescued in time from violent exercise, in other words, if the physician realizes that he has not rheumatism or the cramps to deal with, there is not such danger of these deformities."

"I may offer this suggestion to all parents: Whenever they find that one of their children unexpectedly manifests weakness of a limb, be it hand, foot, leg or arm, place the child in bed immediately and send for a physician."

Dr. Sheffield declares that the one method of checking the disease rests in publicity so complete that all physicians will have possibility of it in mind whenever examining a sick child.

"AFIAME FROM BED PLATES TO CABINS"

F. A. Kilburn Narrowly Escaped Being Burned at Sea—Heroic Action of Crew Saved Vessel

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—That the fire in the steamer R. A. Kilburn, while on its way to Eureka, was not so serious as reported, was the statement of the officials of the North Pacific Steamship Company today. They announced that the vessel was able to start on her return trip and would arrive in this port at the usual time Saturday. The fire was confined to the engine room amidships. One hundred and thirty passengers were aboard, mostly residents of San Francisco.

TO EXTINGUISH FLAMES TO DISTINGUISH FLAMES

EUREKA, Cal., Aug. 2.—Afiame from bed plates to cabins, dripping with oil and severed from the world by the failure of her wireless, the North Pacific Steamship Company's vessel F. A. Kilburn was saved from destruction Wednesday night by the heroic efforts of her crew.

Two girls narrowly escaped suffocation. An oiler fell and broke a leg. Sidney Aston, the steward, who rescued the two girls, and Chief Engineer E. G. Clough both fell heavily on the oil-drenched decks and were badly bruised.

The Kilburn left San Francisco Wednesday at 11 a. m., and arrived here yesterday afternoon under her own power. While about twenty-five miles south of Point Arena, at 10 o'clock Wednesday night, fire broke out in the engine room as oil was being moved from one fuel tank to the other.

Operator Murray barely had time to send out a few "S. O. S." calls, when he was driven from his room before they could be answered. After two hours of hard work the crew were in control of the flames and early this morning the fire was out.

The F. A. Kilburn is a wooden ship. She was burned to the waterline about two years ago, while lying at the Oakland long wharf.

"WHITEY" LEWIS PUT THROUGH SWEAT BOX

Whitman Goes on Secret Trip to Boston on Rosenthal Murder Matter

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Charged with being one of the four men who shot Rosenthal, "Whitey" Lewis, whose real name is Frank Sledenshue, was "sweated" today by Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty as to his knowledge of the crime.

District Attorney Whitman was in Boston today conferring with some one regarding the Rosenthal case. The details of his trip were kept secret, but it is reported that Jack Selig, a notorious New York gang leader, is there.

Police Inspector Hughes today said his wife is on the verge of nervous prostration as a result of newspaper criticism leveled at him.

Reports reaching District Attorney Whitman's office today said "Lefty Louie" Rosenberg and Harry Horowitz, alleged to have been implicated in the actual killing of Rosenthal, are in hiding somewhere between Newburgh and Albany.

"WHITEY" LEWIS WAS CAPTURED—$2,257,000 PER YEAR FOR GRAFT

The most important thing accomplished yesterday was the capture of Frank Muller, alias "Whitey" Lewis, one of the gunmen charged with having fired the shots which ended the gambler's life. He was arrested at Fleischmann's, New York.

This is the second of the men who are alleged to have fired the bullets into Rosenthal's body to be captured, the first being "Dago Frank." The two men still at large are "Lefty" Louie, and "Gyp the Blood," who are reported to have been seen in company with "Whitey" Lewis during the past twenty-four hours.

Based on the confession of "Jack" Rose to the district attorney, it has been figured out that eighty high grade gambling houses paid $1,250,000, fifty-five small games $540,000; one hundred and ninety poker rooms, $275,000, and one hundred and sixty-five stud and crap games, $192,000 annually to the "System" for protection. Thus 490 separate and distinct gambling places paid $2,257,000 a year in to the pockets of those supposed to preserve the law.

HOW TO BE WELL AND HAPPY AT 85

One of the Los Angeles papers recently had the following interesting article that is well worth reading and heeding:
"Here comes Col. T. H. Kingsley, known as the oldest active railroad man in the world—he is eighty-five—with the recipe for happiness, sprightliness, many friends and few enemies in old age. He says:
"Take your sweetheart out driving as many times a week as you can.
"Take lots of exercise.
"Keep your heart open—don't be afraid to love.
"Work hard and play hard.
"Don't be a grouchy—everybody hates a grouchy and it makes you prematurely old.
"Work hard, live lightly and always be a true sportsman.
"Col. Kingsley comes to Los Angeles from Dallas, Tex. He is a traveling passenger agent for the Louisville and Nashville railroad. He owns property in Los Angeles. He says he's coming here to build a home on the property and retire when he has reached his one-hundredth birthday."

DECLARES THAT HE WILL NOT RES

he said that the thing came up suddenly, and he was so shocked he was hardly responsible for he said.

Sturges will be present at the meeting of the school board tonight. The school board insists on resigning may demand payment in full for the building he had been architect all way through and the building committed. He was to get three and a per cent as his commission. Un contract is let for the building, it is no way of telling what the cost would be. If the building cost $150,000, his commission would be $2250. Under the original agreement he was to draw the plans for grammar school free. At the Tuesday night meeting it was proposed to Sturges a settlement, along with resignation, of three and a half per cent of the contract price of the grammar school building. Contracts for heating and ventilation of the building have not been set, but the total of the building will probably cost $25,000. In other words, the school board proposed offering him $875 a chance to resign.

But Sturges does not propose to sign. He proposes to finish the job.

THE OLD MAN IS IDENTIFIED

E. M. Cleveland, Who Wandered From Home at Orange, Found in Los Angeles

E. M. Cleveland, aged 89, who wandered away from the home of his daughter on Center street, Orange, last Tuesday, has been found in Los Angeles. He was found there by police on Tuesday, wandering aimlessly about, and was taken to jail for protection. He was identified today by Evan Davis of Orange.

How the old man got money with which to go to Los Angeles is a mystery. The man has been inclined to wander away from his home, but the close watch of his daughter prevented any such occurrence. A few days ago, however, the daughter was called out of town, and the old man was left in some other person's charge, who did not realize the likelihood of the old man's wandering away.

The old man had but twenty-five cents in his pockets, not enough to pay his fare to Los Angeles.

The Times said of the lost man: An aged and pathetic figure, a man with snow-white hair and long gray beard, for two days has sat in the "tank room" of the Central Police station vainly trying to remember his name and his home. His effort to recall his wandering ways long enough to tell the police who he is and where he resides has gained him the sympathy of every man at the station.

Surrounded by prisoners arrested on various charges, the old man pays no attention to them, but keeps wagging his head and mumbling to himself. When asked his name and where he lives his eyes brighten and he appears to be groping in the dim recesses of his memory, but the light always dies and a look of helplessness comes over his features as he shakes his head sadly in answer to questions.

The old man, who, when the question of age is brought up, nods his head affirmative when 90 years are mentioned, was picked up on Tuesday at Figueroa and Third streets by Officer Houston.

Yesterday a determined effort was made to find out who he is.

"What is your name, grandpa?" asked a jailor.

The old man looked up out of a pair of faded blue eyes and mumbled something.

"Do you know your name?" he was asked.

The old man appeared to be trying to think. He sat silent a long time, and then he threw back his head and laughed feebly.

"I don't know," he said.

"Where do you live?"

Again a shake of the head in the negative.

These questions were repeated over and over for half an hour but the patriarch only became more bewildered.

The names of various suburban towns have been mentioned to him and he says "yes," and nods his head when the names of Pomona and Ramona are mentioned.

The police think he must have come from a small town near the city or there would have been some report made by relatives or friends.

When asked if he has any children he says "yes." Asked if he has a son he says "No," and answers affirmatively when asked if he has a daughter. There are no marks of any kind on his clothes, which would give a clue to his identity.

The old man wears a black slouch hat, white shirt, stand-up collar and a black bow tie. His clothes are dark and his coat is an old-fashioned cut-away.

LOOKED HONEST BUT THE CHECK WAS BAD

Herman Walther's Visit to Bank After Banking Hours Showed Paper Worthless

Young Man Tried to Make $125 in a Hurry, But Circumstances Prevented

ORANGE, Aug. 2.—An honest appearing young man came near cashing a worthless $125 check here yesterday afternoon. Had the check been for a small sum he might have succeeded.

About 4:30 o'clock there stepped into Herman Walther's clothing store a heavy-set, clean-shaven man of about 25 years, dressed in overalls and having the appearance of being a workman. He selected a suit of clothes and some other articles, saying that he was going to start for Kansas and had come into town too late to get a check cashed at the bank.

He presented the check to Walther. It was $125. The check was made out to N. Marvin, the name given by the purchaser, was on the First National Bank of Orange and was signed Charles Leslie.

Walther had faith in the young man, who said he could be identified at the Elmer-Grote store, but Walther did not know Charles Leslie. Walther stepped from his store, and walked across the plaza to the First National Bank, where he found one of the officials. He got the information that Charles Leslie had no account there.

Walther then went back to the store, intending to tell the honest appearing young man that Leslie had given him a bogus check. When Walther arrived at the store, the young man was gone. Undoubtedly he was afraid of the likely consequences of Walther's visit to the bank. He has not been seen here since.

ARIZONA RAILWAYS
ASK REFERENDUM

Will Submit Legislative Enactment to the People of Arizona

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 2.—It has been left for the railroad companies to first oil up and put into action the machinery of the referendum under Arizona laws, as applied to legislation already achieved. There are constitutional amendments that will come under the referendum automatically, and equal suffrage is to be acted on by the initiative, but the first effort to "recall" the laws passed by the first state legislature, through the referendum, was begun yesterday by the railroads. All the lines are co-operating, and yesterday employees of one company or another in all the populous towns, began the circulation of petitions, asking that the five laws passed by the legislature, in which the railroads are materially concerned, be submitted for the approval of the people. The petitions were signed liberally and there is no doubt but that the required 5 per cent of the number of votes cast for governor will be easily secured.

Acts Involved
The five laws in question are one requiring electric headlights on all locomotives; one requiring all engineers to have had three years' experience as firemen, and all conductors three years' experience as brakemen; one requiring three men as the crew of a lone engine and defining the number of men in train crews; the 8-cent fare law and the semi-monthly pay day law. This embraces all the legislation that affected the physical operation of railroads.

WILL CHARGE THE NEW RATE

The Gas Company Will Collect as $1.15 Only up to July First

Orange News: The Southern Counties Gas Company will not attempt to set at defiance the ordinance of the City of Orange fixing the price of gas at $1.15 per thousand cubic feet.

The $1.25 rate will be charged only for gas used in June and the $1.15 rate for gas used in July, on the first day of which the city's ordinance became effective.

"We were under a wrong impression as to the situation here," said a representative of the company today. "We understood that the question was to be submitted to an election proposing to place the rate-making power in the hands of the Railroad Commission. We were perfectly willing to have the state rule on the case, but we thought that the city ordinance would be held in abeyance until that time."

"We have no desire to break a city ordinance, and we will observe it while it stands."

Asked what would be the next step of the company, the agent replied that he could not say. From the trend of his remarks, however, it might be gathered that the company would be likely to appeal to the courts against the enforcement of the ordinance.

"We are glad that it appears that the people here are better satisfied with the service. For the present the city ordinance rate of $1.15 will be accepted."

The city's reinforced concrete water reservoir, with a storage capacity of 600,000 gallons, is now in daily use.

Two wells are being pumped into the new reservoir, while the third is turned into the old reservoir. A supply sufficient to run the city for several days, in case of accident to the well-pumping machinery, is thus constantly on hand.

The reservoir was built under the provisions of the water works bond issue and is the first of the projects authorized by that bond election to be completed. The power house is now in course of construction.

City Marshal Warner this morning swore to a complaint against W. H. H. Clayton, charging violation of ordinance No. 72 for failure to connect with the West Chapman avenue sewer within the prescribed time limit of six months after acceptance.

The warrant was served, but the date of the preliminary hearing has not been set.

VEGETABLES SENT EAST BY CARLOAD FROM LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles Tribune: Southern California's output of vegetables is keeping pace with her steady increase in other products. Enlarged acreages and improved methods have raised the total this season to 3407 carloads shipped over the Southern Pacific system thus far. Each day adds to the number.

Of this total, 2490 cars were consigned to eastern cities, and 917 cars to Los Angeles and Southern California points. The vegetables include all kinds. They are being demanded in eastern markets because of the special excellence of their flavor and their shipping qualities.

There is rich tang to the vegetables raised in the soil and climate of the region south of the Sierras which, chefs in the great hotels and cafes tell the commission men of their cities, cannot be found in garden products of other sections.

RIVERSIDE WILL BE DYNAMITE EXPERIMENT STATION FOR LATEST CULTIVATION PROCESS

From the Riverside Enterprise

This city is soon to become headquarters for a large amount of experimental work in "cultivating" with dynamite, according to H. D. Gaskill, special representative of the Dupont-Nemours company. Mr. Gaskill and his assistant, E. B. Doremus, have been here for two days, looking over the orange districts, and preparing a plan of operation for the fall season. Field work will start some time the latter part of August.

Will Start Early
"Our experiments this year are designed to show the value of getting into the ground early, so that the winter rains will have full opportunity to penetrate to greatest depth," said Mr. Gaskill this morning. "Experiments have shown that the fall 'cultivation' is the best. We use a low percentage dynamite, that shatters the ground much the same as an earthquake, and does not simply blow out a post-hole. It is a mistake to wait until spring, as the extreme loosening of the ground is liable to injure the tree while the sap is in full flow. On the other hand, the physiological conditions of the tree treated in the fall, and saturated

ONLY ONE MORE DAY FOR REGISTRATION FOR PRIMARIES

Are you registered? If not get busy. You have only one more day to qualify for the September primary. If your name is not enrolled by midnight tomorrow night you will be barred from participation in the nomination of party candidates.

Don't overlook your duty as a citizen. The old register has been cancelled, and if you have not registered since January 2 of this year you are not a qualified voter. Don't get careless and delay action until you are shut out. Get busy now.

The voter who is in most danger of losing his vote (and this means HER vote, too,) is the one who thinks he has registered since the first of the year but has not. Another voter who is in danger is the one who has registered since the first of the year, but has moved from one precinct to another since registering, without notifying the county clerk.

A word as to your politics. If you are for Theodore Roosevelt you can help him carry again the state that he won by 70,000 in the primaries. To do this you must register as a Republican and vote for John N. Anderson for state senator and Hans V. Weisel for assemblyman. These are the candidates who are pledged to nominate Republican electors who will support Theodore Roosevelt in the electoral college.

Whatever your opinions, don't fail to register. The people will decide the issue, and the bigger the vote the better for the state. It is only when the people are apathetic that a commonwealth is in danger.

PROGRESSIVE LEAGUE OF ORANGE COUNTY ENDORSES S. C. EVANS

At a well-attended meeting at the Armory last night of the Progressive Republican League of Orange County the following resolution was offered by John Beatty, seconded by Mr. Baumgartner and others, and unanimously adopted:

Be It Resolved, That the members of the Progressive Republican League of Orange County, believing S. C. Evans, Republican candidate for Congress from the Eleventh Congressional district of California, to be well equipped for the high office to which he aspires, a gentleman of irreproachable character, public spirited, and broad-minded, possessing fine business ability and wide experience in various public capacities, well informed as to the conditions and needs of every section of this Congressional district, and withal a pronounced and consistent Progressive Republican, in harmony with the candidacy of Theodore Roosevelt and with the Roosevelt policies, hereby heartily endorse his candidacy, pledging our support and influence; and be it further

Resolved, That in our opinion no other man of the district would do more for the protection of our fruit, sugar and other industries, for the improvement of our harbors and for the general prosperity of the district, and at the same time better serve our state and nation in the House of Representatives, and we earnestly solicit for him the support of all Republicans of the district; and be it further

Resolved, That the secretary of this organization be, and he is hereby instructed to mail a copy of these resolutions to Mr. Evans and also furnish copies thereof to the various Republican newspapers of the district.

President Steele Finley was in the chair and Secretary A. B. Gardner was in attendance.

The proceedings had to do mainly with plans for a vigorous campaign on behalf of the Roosevelt legislative ticket—Anderson for state senator and Weisel for assemblyman—and for control of the county convention. On motion the Santa Ana Roosevelt Republican Club was requested to take charge of the campaign in this city, and local organization and representation of the League will be effected in every precinct in the county.

President Grubb of the Santa Ana Roosevelt Republican Club called a meeting of that organization at the law office of Keesh & Davis for tomorrow night and the club will immediately "get busy."

BRAZIL ROAD CANAL RIVAL

Great Engineering Marvel Will Open Big Area—Was Begun
Nearly Century Ago

Washington Star: What is said to be as great an engineering feat in railroad building as the digging of the Panama Canal has been in its way is the completion of the Madeira-Mamore Railway in Brazil, which is to be opened September 7.

There is to be an American official at the inauguration of the line, Dr. Albert Hale of the Pan-American Union, who will leave here August 6 as the representative of the United States.

This great railway will extend from the connecting coast lines in Brazil hundreds of miles into the jungle and up the line of the Madeira River around the falls of Mamore, which lend the line their name. This railway is frequently likened in South America to the building of the Panama Canal and probably would not be completed now had it not been for the lessons in sanitation which the United States gave Brazil in cleaning up the Canal Zone.

Brazil has been at work on the railroad for nearly a century, although this work has not been continuous. There have been spasmodic attempts to drive the line through the jungle, as there were to pierce the isthmus of Panama. Several big American companies were formed and failed in the earlier work because, as the engineers declared, they had buried two workmen under every tie on the road.

When it was found how tropical construction camps could be made habitable by the work that the United States was doing in Panama, Brazil renewed her attempt to build the tropical railroad. It was an expensive undertaking, and was made financially possible, in part, by the co-operation of Bolivia. For, on the head waters of the Amazon and Madeira, there was a great tract known as the Acre concession, whose boundary had been in dispute between Bolivia and Brazil for generations. The question was finally settled by Brazil ceding the disputed territory to Bolivia in return for $10,000,000, to be expended on the big Madeira Railway.

The new line opens up an immense area of valuable farming country, but its chief end, from the viewpoint of Brazilian capitalists, is that it penetrates one of the greatest wilderness areas in the world. It has been feared for many years that the railroad from the Atlantic Coast never would be completed, and a group of English capitalists expended a fortune in building and blasting a remarkable series of trails through the passes of the Andes, so that much of the rubber in this territory could be transported by raft and pack train to the Pacific coast. The coming of the railway will form a new outlet for this sort of freight, and while it may not reduce the cost of manufactured rubber, it will insure a class of permanent traffic that will go far toward supporting the new railway.

RINGLING CIRCUS MAY WINTER IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—John E. Ringling, one of the best known showmen of the day, arrived at the Hotel Alexandria last night from Baraboo, Wis., the winter headquarters of the Ringling Brothers' shows.

Although there is no definite statement to the effect, it is thought Mr. Ringling is here to look over land with the idea of establishing the winter quarters of the show enterprise near Los Angeles.

FAMOUS ALBERS PROPERTY AT ELSINORE IS PURCHASED BY LOS ANGELES SYNDICATE

From the Riverside Enterprise.

The big Lakeland ranch at Elsinore, "Folly" brand of oil and pickled fruit are laughed at no more. His enterprise has developed and grown to success under the management of J. C. Ramsdale, who has had it in charge for 17 years and who knows the business from the planting of the young tree to the marketing of the finished product. Each year has seen increase in capacity; larger presses were installed from year to year until the present monster machinery was installed. The pickling department capacity was enlarged each year, more water was developed, and every sort and description of modern machinery for handling the olives was installed.

The consideration has not been given out, but it is known to have been in excess of $100,000. The olive flourishes in the Elsinore and Wildomar valleys and on account of the high, dry climatic conditions the trees and fruit reach their utmost perfection here practically free from the scale and mildew which infest them in foggy coast locations. On account of these conditions and because the factory and press are so near to the orchards, the fruit reaches them in perfect condition, which is one of the reasons given for the unexcelled finished product.

NEW MINISTER HAS ARRIVED

Albuquerque Journal Praises
Man Who Comes Here to Take Charge of Mission

Rev. Ambrosio C. Gonzales arrived here with his family yesterday from Albuquerque, and has taken up his work as minister of the First Methodist Mexican mission. He was met here by local Methodists interested in the Spanish and Mexican mission work and by Rev. V. M. McCombs of South Pasadena, superintendent of Spanish mission work in Southern California.

Concerning Rev. Gonzales, the Albuquerque Journal of July 30 said:

"Rev. Mr. Gonzales is a native of Valencia county, having been born in Peralta, N. M., some thirty-six years ago. His grandfather, Rev. Ambrosio Gonzales, Sr., was said to be the first licensed Mexican preacher in the Methodist church in the world, and was instrumental in building up a very large work in his home town. The grandson was educated in the Albuquerque College, Boys' Biblical and Industrial School, under the charge of Dr. Thomas Harwood and his faithful wife, and shows his education in his attention to details in his church work. His parishioners are sorry to lose him, but feel that he is worthy of a better place in the church's work."

ARE TO CELEBRATE ON LABOR DAY

Woodmen of Orange County
Will Have Gathering at
Fullerton September 2

Fullerton Tribune: Labor day will be celebrated in Fullerton. Preparations for that event are being made by the Modern Woodmen of America.

Every year the Orange County Log Rolling association, composed of the Modern Woodmen orders of the county, hold a celebration and picnic. Last year it took place at Orange.

Fullerton has been chosen as the place for the big Woodmen gathering and members of the order from every camp in the county are expected to attend. Although the celebration is under the auspices of the Woodmen the invitation is general to the public to join in making the day enjoyable.

A special committee is arranging the program, which will include a baseball game and other forms of sport and a dance at night. The picnic will probably be held at the grammar school grounds. Addresses will be delivered in the morning.

Besides Fullerton there are Modern Woodmen lodges at Anaheim, Olinde, Orange, Santa Ana and Garden Grove. The Woodmen plan to have the merchants decorate, and the co-operation of the citizens will be asked in entertaining the visitors. Labor Day is Monday, September 2.

PASTOR GOES TO OREGON

Old Newport's Popular Minister Has Been Transferred to Another Field

OLD NEWPORT, Aug. 1.—As a big surprise comes the announcement of the transference to the Oregon conference of the pastor of this charge, Rev. Monrow Risinger. He, with his wife and son, Donald, will move to that state during the first of next week. Nothing definite as to his plans will be revealed at the morning service next Sunday. The presiding elder, Rev. Kenney, will preach in the morning and Mrs. Risinger will give an address in the evening. Everyone in the community should come out to these farewell services and show by a large attendance somewhat of their friendship and appreciation for these esteemed people, Rev. Risinger and family.

The good wishes of everyone will go with them to their new home, for success in their work among new friends.

The call to Huntington Beach proved so strong that very few were in attendance at the church Sunday morning. The services were dismissed until evening, so that all could go who wished to attend the meeting at the tabernacle.

The report has been verified as to the sale of the ranch occupied by Mr. Townsend and family. This is the ranch just south and adjoining the Platt ranch. Mr. Townsend has acquired a ranch at Clearwater and will move his family to that place some time in the near future. Their removal will be much regretted not only by those in church circles, but by all in the community.

Not a Parisian gown, not a top hat, frock coat or stiff collar were to be seen at the Hard Times social Tuesday evening. It was a success if a large crowd, a general good time and the consumption of vast quantities of ice cream count for it. "Snap" was the favorite game. Others were introduced and played for a time, but all would soon revert to the treasury of the league from the sale of the ice cream. Quite a few were subjects for a fine for appearing in other than second-best dress.

At the business meeting of the Epworth League the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

Miss Lulu Townsend, president; Miss Grace McClain, first vice president; Miss Ethel Walton, second vice president; Mrs. J. W. Harlin, third vice president; Miss Esther Segerstrom, fourth vice president; Mr. Charles McClain, secretary; Mr. Cameron Townsend, treasurer; Mrs. A. G. Adams, Epworth Era agent; Miss Ruth Armstrong, organist.

The wagon for the Sunday school picnic leaves the school house promptly at 7:30 Thursday morning for Newport Beach. Lunch will be eaten before going on to Balboa. Mean to go with a determination to fully enjoy every moment, and to help someone else enjoy it also.

Mr. C. N. McClintock and Mr. H. O. Merritt took a trip in the auto to Los Angeles on Friday of last week.

Miss Rumsey, of San Bernardino, and Miss Miller, of Los Angeles, came down Saturday for a visit at the home of Miss McClintock's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. McClintock, of Fairview.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McClain and the younger children spent the day Sunday in Bethel.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Brooks went to Los Angeles Tuesday to stay a few days.

Miss Lucille Platt of Ocean Park, is visiting her friend, Miss Anna Segerstrom, at Willow Springs ranch.

McFadden families were among the visitors at Huntington Beach Sunday. Our genial grocer, Mr. Price, is back from his week's vacation, and is caring for his customers' wants in the same satisfactory way, and reports a splendid rest and recreation.

Mrs. H. O. Merritt and Miss Marie Strunk spent Wednesday at Huntington Beach.

JULY BUILDING SHOWS GOOD INCREASE

Permits Exceeded Last Year by 31 Per Cent—Future Outlook is Good

With building permits totaling $35,629, an increase of $5,529, or 31.5 per cent, over the same month last year, July justified the prediction that there would be very little evidence of summer dullness in the building lines this year. Permits for the week ended yesterday totaled $8415, including a number of moderate priced contracts, indicating that as projects now on hand are finished up there will be plenty to succeed them.

According to architects and contractors there is indication of markedly increased activity in the near future in the existing inquiry for plans and figures. People whose plans had been held up until expected returns from various crops should come in, are now seeing their way clear, and are beginning to make active arrangements for building. At present the principal interest is in residences, and the rate of building them shows no decrease. Moderate priced houses are the rule, but there is a universal demand for substantial construction and modern features. The pressing demand for rental houses is shown in the continued activity in building for the market. There is also much going forward in the way of remodeling and renovating residences so as to make them attractive to prospective renters or purchasers.

Plans which are being perfected, but which are not ready for announcement as yet, assure the erection of several business buildings during the coming fall. There is also likelihood of considerable activity in the line of flat and apartment houses. These projects, together with the two new schools and probably the county hospital, make it certain that the coming season will be by far the busiest in the history of the city, exceeding in decided degree the remarkable activity of last fall.

RENTAL HOMES A REAL NEED

Orange News: There is an urgent demand for rental houses in Orange. The demand for houses cannot be approached by the available supply, and families are being turned away from the town through inability to secure a place in which to live.

It is authoritatively stated that at the present time there are but two small houses in the town that could be considered as in any manner suitable for occupancy that are not rented.

A. J. Boulanger of the Ehlen & Grote Company, declares that he knows of several families that have recently left Orange because of being unable to secure a place in which to live. He states that he also knows of other families desiring to move here if houses were available.

This is a remarkable condition for this season of the year, when the tourist business is supposed to be at low ebb, and promises still more demand for houses when the winter season comes on and the eastern people come to spend the winter.

The opportunity would seem to be at hand for the building of a number of houses of moderate cost, either for sale or rent. If there is a shortage of houses at this season of the year, it is safe to assume that by the first of next year there will be a great demand for such property. There is also opportunity for the building of a downtown apartment house.

The National Progressive Party Is "In the Ring"

Its First Convention Will Be Held In Chicago on Aug. 5.

Speculation as to Its Future—History of Other
"Third Parties."

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.
THE long expected third party is here, and Roosevelt is its prophet. The newspapers call it the "Bull Moose" party, and the politicians call it names not fit to print. Anyway, it is in the ring and will have to be reckoned with by all concerned.

Guesses as to the number of votes it will poll range all the way from a few thousand to as many millions, the number varying with the political complexion of the guesser. Some assert that it will not carry a single state, while others are just as certain that it will sweep most of the great Republican states of the north and west and may even break into the solid south. All we know for sure is that it will hold a national convention in Chicago on Aug. 5, that it will nominate Colonel Roosevelt for president and that it will be called the Progressive party. As for the rest, it is on the knees of the gods, whatever the knees of the gods may have to do with politics.

The first national gathering of the Progressive party will be a mass convention in which each state will be entitled to as many votes as it has senators and representatives in congress, the territories being deprived of representation. In other words, the convention will have exactly the same number of votes as the electoral college, or less than half the quota of either old party convention. Yet each state may have a number of delegates in excess of this number, as many, in fact, as the state itself may provide and can get to attend.

What does the move mean? Is it to be only a temporary disturbance, a lull in the pan, or is it to be the beginning of a new departure in American political history?

Its Coming Predicted.

The writer is especially interested in this move because more than a year ago in the Review of Reviews he predicted the formation of a national progressive party this year. Colonel Roosevelt was not then a candidate, nor did it seem probable that he would be. The injection of his personality into the situation has changed matters in some degree, although the principles remain the same. At the time I wrote this article it was my belief that the members of the new progressive party would come from both of the old parties. The nomination of Woodrow Wilson has in some degree satisfied progressive Democrats, so that as large an influx from that party may not be expected as would have gone over under other conditions.

These are only minor variations, however. The great fact is that the new party has come, and in much the same way that it has been apparent to close political students for some time that it must come. However we look at it, the conclusion is forced upon us that its effects will be tremendous. Even though they never succeeded nationally some of the third parties have changed political history.

No one man or group of men can organize a new party. Like poets, parties are born and not made. They are born from great impulses of public opinion. They are the result of material conditions and of human psychology. One of the mysterious facts about these new parties or at least of a certain line of them is that one comes into being about every twenty years.

The Recurrent Reform Wave.

The Republican party was born in 1854 and two years later participated in its first presidential election. It started as a third party, but rapidly drove the Whigs from the field and became one of the two leading parties. John C. Fremont, its first presidential candidate, polled something more than 1,000,000 votes, but was defeated by James Buchanan. In their second election in 1860 the Republicans succeeded owing to a division in the ranks of the Democracy.

The second great uprising came in 1874, when the national Greenback party was organized. The shillbilleth of the Greenbackers was a people's money, and the party supported other issues that looked to the people's rule. While it never polled a very large vote in a presidential canvass, the Greenback party did cast about a million votes in one election, choosing a number of governors and members of congress. Its identity was lost through fusing with the Democrats, although it was still a factor up to 1884.

Eighteen years after the formation of the Greenback party the People's party, generally known as the Populist party, came into existence. In some ways it represented the same spirit as that of the early Republicans and Greenbackers, which in a general way may be described as the rule of the people as against special interests. In its first election, with James B. Weaver as its candidate for president, the People's party polled more than 1,000,000 votes and by 1894 had nearly 2,000,000. In 1896 it fused with the Democrats, but elected a large number of governors, senators and congressmen. While it went out of existence as a party, its principles continued to thrive and have been vital from that day to this.

The Rise of Populism.

The People's party first advocated the initiative, referendum and recall, postal savings banks, government ownership of railroads and telegraphs, a people's money as against what it called the "money power," and other policies in kind. It became involved in the free silver fight, although it is a mistake to suppose that the free coinage of silver was one of the original fundamental issues on which the People's party was formed. In its essence it was an antimoney party and was against railroad domination and fought the machines of both old parties. Its great strength was in the west and south, threatening Democratic supremacy in the south almost as much as Republican supremacy in the west.

The formation of the Progressive party this year occurs at the end of another twenty year period. Thus the dates fall as follows:

1854—Republican party organized.
1874—Greenback party organized.
1892—People's party organized.
1912—Progressive party organized.

The interval in each case is twenty years, except from 1874 to 1892, which is eighteen years, a deviation not great enough to be important.

The writer was intimately associated with the organization of the People party and the Socialist party. Two third party movements appeared in 1896, but only for one campaign. One was that of the Gold Democrats and the other that of the Silver Republicans.

The periodical third party movements may be likened to waves of the sea, each wave mounting higher than those preceding it. With the incoming of this reform tide one wave will advance farther than all the rest, breaking over all barriers and reaching the mark. Is the Progressive movement to prove such a wave?

The organization of a new party is a prodigious task, as is now being realized by the Roosevelt managers. The states have widely varying election laws, and the ticket must be placed upon the ballot in each. In New York, for example, the obstacles in the way are well nigh insurmountable. Other states are almost as difficult. In some states, it is understood, there will be an attempt made to take over the entire Republican organization, electors and all. This plan will be fought by the Taft men and may end up in the courts. The Progressive party will organize throughout the south and will make a pronounced effort to carry some southern states. It will also make a vigorous campaign in those northern states carried by Taft in the pre-convention struggle.

Senator Joe Dixon on Guard.

The general of the Roosevelt forces will be Senator Joseph M. Dixon of Montana, who had charge of the colonel's campaign for the nomination.

Governor Hiram W. Johnson of California has been one of the chief Roosevelt lieutenants, presiding over the meeting of delegates in Chicago that first put the former president in nomination and also naming the committee that has had charge of the organization of the new party. In New York state William H. Hotchkiss, former insurance superintendent, is in charge of the Roosevelt forces. In New Jersey are such doughty warriors as former Governor John Franklin Fort, George L. Record and Everett Colby.

ple's party, having served on several of its committees and having been secretary of its national committee for eight years. Since the disappearance of that organization it has been a matter of great interest to observe the manner in which its principles have taken root and grown until they fill the nation. Its death was a high example of laying down its life to find it again. It died that its principles might live. In the soil of its self sacrifice they have thriven mightily. During the past sixteen years they have been a disrupting force in both of the older parties.

The Incoming Tide.

Having gone through that fight, I have lived in the belief that in time another new party would be formed, cherishing the same spirit and in a general way the same ideas, which would sweep the nation. Is the Progressive party to be a realization of that belief? Has it come to finish the work started twenty years ago? The time was not ripe then to perform the work completely, but public opinion has marvelously changed in the two decades that have since elapsed. I expect the hour is now striking.

There have been other third party movements, although not in the direct line here mentioned. To any one familiar with the history of these movements it is easy to show how the People's party was in a general way the successor of the Greenback party and how the Progressive party is taking up many of the principles of the People's party. Outside of this direct line may be mentioned the Liberal Republican movement of 1872, which nominated Horace Greeley for president; the Pro-

Governors, senators, congressmen and other leading men throughout the nation have declared in favor of the new party, although a number of the Roosevelt leaders in the Republican national convention have refused to follow the colonel outside of the party. Notable among these are Senator Borah of Idaho, Governor Deneen of Illinois and Governor Osborn of Michigan. Senator Cummins has also declared himself against the formation of a new party. Other progressive leaders, such as Governor Hadley of Missouri, have said that they saw no need of a third party in their state, since they would control the regular Republican organization.

Such a situation has never before appeared in American politics. The possibilities arising out of it are staggering. One is an entire new alignment of political parties. Another is that presidential electors will refuse to obey the mandate of their party's national convention. For a third, there may be no election of president at all by the electoral college, which would throw the election into the house of representatives. As neither party has a majority of states in the house, several states being exactly tied, this would almost certainly result in a deadlock, in which event no president at all would be elected, a contingency for which there is no constitutional provision.

Any one of the above results would be revolutionary and in the present excited state of the public mind might actually precipitate revolution. It is this sort of political dynamite that is contained in this unprecedented campaign.

Says he has the best buy in an up-to-date 8 room house in Santa Ana, it is in two minutes walk of the P. O. it is a corner, fronts two nice streets in a very desirable neighborhood, there is plenty of room for another house, it is surrounded by nice trees and shrubbery.

It will rent for a good interest. It is a good place to live. It is a good place to sell. But it is a better place to keep than anything of the kind in the city. If you want a home in a nice refined place I would like to show it to you. If you only want to talk and rubber don't come around. It is too good a buy to spend time. It will talk for itself.

A Convenient Roost
A good roost is a 2x4 scantling, placed broadside over two 12-inch boards. These two boards form a platform which catches the droppings, and these are worth from 75 cents to $1 a barrel. Do not place the roosts too high, for the hens will jump, and in so doing will have leg weakness or perhaps bumblefoot.

STEPS TAKEN TO KEEP OUT PLAGUE

Government Draws the Quarantine Lines Tight.

INSPECTION TO BE STRICT.

Ships From Cuba and Porto Rico Under Scrutiny—Surgeon General Blue Warns of the Threatening Peril. Crusade Against Rats.

Recognizing the danger of the transmission of the plague from infected Cuba to the United States through the medium of incoming ships from the island republic, the governmental medical authorities are every moment becoming more stringent in their enforcement of quarantine provisions.

Following the urgent request of Dr. J. W. Porter, health officer of the state of Florida, who said that it would be extremely undesirable to allow passengers from Havana to enter Florida without first being subject to a quarantine of a week's duration, an order was issued that all passengers from Havana to American ports shall be detained seven days at the Princeton quarantine station, near Havana, before continuing the voyage to the United States.

A Warning Statement.

Surgeon General Blue of the public health service issued a statement warning the public of the peril that threatens.

"We must admit there is danger to American ports from bubonic infection in Porto Rico and Cuba," said Dr. Blue. "However, the situation is hopeful, and the maximum protection allowed under our quarantine laws is afforded now. The plague can be controlled among white persons, but it would be hard to stamp out the disease completely, and as long as there was a trace all other nations would hold a quarantine against us."

Passed Assistant Surgeon Creel, in charge of the sanitary staff at Porto Rico, reports that the condition of affairs there remains the same and that no new cases have been reported.

The health officers at Galveston, Tex., and at other ports along our southern coast are conducting a thoroughgoing crusade against rats. Word has also been received from Surgeon Stoner, chief of the medical staff at Ellis island, that the rodents are being rapidly exterminated along the New York water front.

Great Danger of Spread.

Dr. Henry Skinner of the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences and an authority on economic entomology believes that the danger of the spread of the disease can hardly be overestimated.

"The plague is fast spreading because the world is growing smaller," says Dr. Skinner. "Facilities for transportation both of cargoes and of persons are now so great and such speed is made by steamships that the transmission of disease is vastly facilitated."

"The danger from bubonic plague in this country has been greatly underestimated. I look for it to get a foothold in San Francisco, or other ports from eastern ships at any time, and once it has obtained a foothold its spread is rapid and death almost certain."

"America will almost certainly be afflicted with the dread plague unless the government takes measures to have every rat on board any vessel from infected ports killed; also a stop should be put to the transportation of plants from eastern cities."

FARM FOR "DOWN AND OUTS."

Plan to Have Place For Open Air, Easy Work.

Plans for the purchase of a large truck farm by the city for the employment and care of "down and outs" have been submitted to the Chicago city council by the city's commission on the unemployed. Dr. Charles Henderson, president of the University of Chicago and chairman of the commission, endorses the plan.

The farm, to be established in the Desplaines valley, just outside the city, will have cottages and barracks, and the working hours are not to be long or the work arduous. Small remuneration, based on efficiency, is suggested. It is believed that the open air life will revive ambition in the younger men and give the elders an opportunity to earn a good living and have a home.

OPEN AIR SCHOOLS WILL BE THE SCHOOLS OF THE NOT FAR FUTURE

The time when school buildings will be entirely done away with by the educators of Los Angeles was seriously foreshadowed Wednesday with the announcement from Superintendent Francis' office of the tentative approval of plans for a new style of open air school house which the head of the city's department of public instruction is about to formally adopt, says the Los Angeles Times.

The plans call for a building which literally has but two walls—these being one end and one side. The other two sides will be open or, at most, merely screened. These sides will be provided with roll-curtains of heavy canvas which can be lowered when necessary to shut out inclement weather. In the judgment of Assistant Superintendent Bettenger, who makes the announcement, this style of construction will do away with the necessity for heating the interior.

To what extent the new kind of school house will supersede the old is, of necessity, a matter for the future and the success of the experiment to determine. The project is in line with the uniformly encouraged idea of the maximum of fresh air for school children—a supply to be provided in this manner which no amount of artificial ventilation can secure.

"The children themselves are very enthusiastic about studying and reciting out of doors," said the assistant superintendent. "One little foreigner said his nose could smell better out doors—meaning he could breathe more freely. It seems to me that the rainless, genial climate of Southern California could be used for school purposes largely without buildings. We need but to get used to the idea and we can very nearly stop building school houses."

"Half-day schools have very nearly been done away with and one room been made to do duty for two classes by alternating the work, which required desk and blackboards with the work which did not. The class which was simply reciting or studying did so out under the trees, while the other class did its work within doors. This has been a great blessing, as conditions for study in half-day schools are anything but satisfactory."

Colonel Roosevelt in The Outlook Reviews Chicago Convention

The California, Arizona, Washington and Texas cases were the best known and in them there was practically no room for dispute as to the facts.

It is significant that these four cases were among the last decided by the national committee. The committee first heard a large number of contests which had evidently been brought more for the purpose of demonstrating the misrepresentative character of the delegates from certain Democratic states than for the hope of seating the particular contestants. Then it decided a number of other cases, some of which arguably might make plausibly debatable. Not until it was demonstrated that even all these cases were insufficient to reverse the majority of the convention did the committee go to the final length of throwing out the honest representatives of these four states. When this drastic course was finally decided on, debate was obstructed and curtailed, roll calls were refused, and the proceedings of the committee lost all semblance of even pretended fairness. It was public and undisguised robbery, and all who instigated it and helped carry it out, all who profited by it, and all who condone or apologize for it stand on the same low plane of morality.

Three of these cases were a direct assault on the rights of the people to elect their own delegates at primaries since in them a few score politicians decided that the voters as a whole had no right themselves to decide whom they wished to see nominated. In the California case the delegates to the national convention were elected by direct vote at state wide preferential primaries. The national committee first, and then the national Republican convention, nullified the state law, and therefore, by inference, all state primary laws. In Arizona and Washington the control of the state conventions depended on which of two rival delegations were seated from certain counties, the one set selected by the Republican voters at primaries regularly called, and the other set arbitrarily appointed by bolting minorities of county committees. The state committees in each case, seated the appointed delegates, and the national committee approved that action.

The California case was the most far-reaching in its significance, because, while it directly affected only two votes, the principle enunciated in it would destroy the entire system of presidential primaries. The national committee bluntly decided in this case that it would nullify any state primary law which did not coincide with the terms of the committee's convention call. As convention calls are sure to differ from year to year and those of one party from those of another, while state laws differ one case from another, but must be uniform in each state as to all parties, it follows that it is beyond human ingenuity to devise a system whereby all state laws in all years will coincide with the convention calls of all the parties. The only principle on which the primary system can survive at all is that the laws of each state shall prevail as to the elections in that state. This principle the national committee squarely overthrew in the California case, and the new national committee, which will exercise the same power in 1916, has explicitly taken the same ground as its predecessor.

The facts in the California case are briefly these: Under the law of California (as of several other states) the method of electing delegates to nominate a presidential candidate is exactly analogous to the method of choosing electors to elect a president. The candidates favoring each candidate are placed on the ballot in a single group, and are voted on by the state at large. This law passed the legislature by unanimous vote, and was accepted by all parties and factions. The three republican candidates for president, including Mr. Taft, personally, signed their approval of the several groups of delegates running in their names. The election was regularly held under the law, and the 26 Roosevelt delegates having received majorities averaging nearly 77,000, received and filed certificates of election from the secretary of state. There was no dispute of their election under the law. The contest was on the law itself.

The convention call of the national committee provided that the election should be by districts, while the law of California required it to be by the state at large. The delegates therefore were elected at large. But on the being raised on two of the 36 delegates from California, the committee put its call above the law and reversed the result of the election.

Even aside from this nullification of the law, the California contest rested on no basis of fact. The Roosevelt delegates carried every county but one in the state, and received decisive majorities in all the congressional districts but one. In the Fourth district, comprising roughly the northern half of the city of San Francisco, the margin was so close it would depend on the votes of 14 border precincts, casting 1885 Republican votes, which were situated partly in the Fourth and partly in the Fifth district.

The registrar of voters of San Francisco and the secretary of state both certified that it was impossible to tell how many of these votes were cast in the Fourth district. The committee, however, disregarded these certificates, and rested its stand on a previous certificate, issued by the secretary of state by mistake, and subsequently revoked by him, and on this flimsy basis concluded that the 26 Taft delegates had received a few more votes in the district than the 26 Roosevelt delegates.

Three of the Taft group and three of the Roosevelt group happened to be residents of this district, so the committee arbitrarily chose two of these three Roosevelt delegates for rejection, and substituted for them as arbitrarily two of the three defeated Taft delegates—and not the ones who had the highest votes. The decision was based on neither law nor facts, since it was in direct repudiation of the law, and had no facts other than guesswork as to the vote and arbitrary selection as to the individuals. The committee arrogated to itself a power which the supreme court of the United States has refused to exercise in analogous cases, and erected its temporary convention call into an authority over the election of delegates greater than that which the constitution of the United States possesses over the selection of electors.

In Arizona two state conventions were held at the same time, in the same hall, each containing a quorum of persons claiming to have been elected to the convention. One convention elected Roosevelt delegates and the other Taft delegates. The difference was that the conventions contained rival delegations from Maricopa and Cochise counties. The state committee had left it to each county to decide whether it would choose delegates by primary or by appointment of the county committee. In Cochise County the Roosevelt delegates were appointed, at the regular time and place, at the regular time and place, by the majority of the county committee, while the Taft delegates were appointed, at another time and place, by a bolting minority of the county committee. In Maricopa county the Roosevelt delegates were elected by vote of 95 to 11, at a regular primary, called by a majority of the county committee in accordance with the custom of 25 years in that county. The largest vote for all candidates ever cast at a Republican primary in that county was only 1200, so the Roosevelt vote was a clear majority of the party, even if all who failed to vote were assumed to be for Taft.

The Taft delegates from this county were appointed by a minority of the county committee. The state committee usurped an authority never before exercised by it in Arizona, and seated the illegal Taft delegates from both these counties, refusing the legally elected Roosevelt delegates a right to protest at the convention. The legally elected delegates held their convention nevertheless at the appointed time and place, but naturally under much confusion. The national committee sustained the committee in both these indefensible rulings, and thereby seated an arbitrarily appointed Taft delegation, representing a minority of unscrupulous politicians, in place of the regularly elected, Roosevelt delegation representing an overwhelming majority of the people themselves.

The Washington delegation was notoriously stolen by the state committee, and the theft was ratified by the national committee.

The proceedings in the state were so outrageous that even Governor Hay, himself a Taft man, appeared before the committee to protest. The Taft margin in the convention, as finally made up, was so narrow that a decision in favor of the Roosevelt delegates in any one of the ten contested counties would have changed it into a majority. Several of these cases were perfectly plain, and were not even defended in the brief of the Taft contestants before the national committee. In the most populous counties—among them containing the cities of Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane—primaries were held, and Mr. Taft was beaten, the majority against him being two to one and upwards, and in some cases being over 10 to 1.

The principal contest turned on King County, in which Seattle is situated. The 121 Roosevelt delegates to the state convention from this county were elected at a primary, regularly called by a majority of the full county committee, by a vote of some 6400 to 500. The 121 Taft delegates were appointed by 12 members of a defunct campaign executive committee of the previous year, which had since been removed from office by the vote of the full committee. It really seems impossible to imagine a mere barefaced fraud.

It was by no means the only case, however; the delegations from all the big counties where the voters at the primaries had decided overwhelmingly against Mr. Taft were kept out. The state committee usurped a power, not exercised in former years, of deciding the contests, and so controlled access to the convention hall as to make it impossible for the Roosevelt delegates to enter. As the honestly elected Roosevelt delegates, half of whom had been chosen by the people at primaries, outnumbered the dishonestly elected Taft delegates about 5 to 1, it was out of the question for them to submit. They thereupon assembled, constituting a large majority of the convention, in another place, and elected a Roosevelt delegation in accordance with the expressed will of their constituents.

The usurping Taft minority, including some contestants whom even their own committee had declined to seat, chose the Taft delegates, who were seated by the national committee and kept in their seats by the convention. Yet the Taft minority of the convention consisted of only a sixth of the delegates legally elected to the convention! (Mr. Ballinger, once Mr. Taft's secretary of the interior, was among the minority members, by the way.) The decision in this case shows that there was literally no length to which the men making it were not willing to go. Literally, not figuratively, it would have been more defensible to unseat the Taft delegates at large from New York, Connecticut or Rhode Island than to unseat those Washington delegates. The people of Washington, wherever given a chance in the primaries, decided three to one, four to one and ten to one against Mr. Taft, and then the politicians at Chicago upset the verdict of the people, and seated in the convention the men whom the people of Washington had overwhelmingly repudiated.

In the Texas case the national committee reversed its own ruling on all the other convention cases. It was conceded that the Roosevelt delegates from Texas were regularly elected and certified by the regular Republican convention, called and chosen under the laws of Texas and with the appointment provided by those laws, and that the Taft delegates were chosen by a bolting convention, composed of only a small minority of delegates, which counted a fictitious quorum by assigning to some of its members arbitrary additional votes, on a basis of apportionment unknown to the law.

At the regular convention there were present at roll call 172 out of a possible 211 delegates from the state and four more subsequently reported present. The Roosevelt instructions were passed by a vote of 162 3/4 votes, a three to one majority of all the delegates entitled to sit. The contrary vote was 13 1/4. As only 27 counties in the state had instructed for Taft, not over 14 of these could have been absent or at the rump convention elsewhere held. The temporary roll of the convention had been made up by the state committee, in regular session, and was ratified, on roll call, by the unanimous vote of the convention. Only 17 contests were filed before the state committee. These were heard by sub-committees consisting in each case of one Taft and one Roosevelt members. These committees decided four of the cases in favor of the Taft contestants and four in favor of divided delegations, and the rest for the Roosevelt claimants. The decisions were unanimous except as to the cases of one sub-committee. To rehear these cases, and certain additional cases which had come in after the time limit, a special committee was appointed, but the representative of the contestants, though personally notified, did not appear. He gave notice that he would, instead, file a minority report before the state convention, but did not do so. The Taft minority held a separate and confessedly bolting convention. In all other convention cases the national committee being convened, the delegates representing bolting conventions, even where there was abundant evidence that these conventions represented the real sentiment of the people. In the Texas case, which was one of the clearest of all, they reversed this rule and recognized the bolting convention. The Republican presidential electors of Texas were nominated by the regular convention, and are the only ones, under the law, who will be on the ballot in the (to be sure, improbable) event of Texas going Republican, the anomalous condition would be presented of the Republican candidate for president receiving the votes of electors whose credentials had been discredited by the Republican national committee.

President Taft was nominated by 21 votes—or by 19, if the two from Massachusetts are omitted which were counted only by the extraordinary ruling of Chairman Root that when a delegate answered "present" and not "voting," his alternate shall be called to vote, always provided that alternate is a Taft man and the delegate a Roosevelt man. The cases here discussed cover, in their narrowest application, 30 votes—California 2, Arizona 6, Washington 14, and Texas at large 8. The change of these 30 votes would have defeated Taft; they would have reversed all the important actions of the convention. Several of the district cases from Texas are involved in the same ruling as that which was made in the case of the delegates at large, and are quite as flagrant. Numerous other cases—as clearly shown by the minority of the national committee and by the minority of the credentials committee of the convention—were just as bad. As I have said, one Louisiana case was worse. In one Indiana case the Taft delegates were elected only by first packing the credentials committee by refusing to let in Roosevelt delegates in whose cases pretended contests had been filed, and then by reversing this rule and letting the contested Taft delegates vote on their own cases. There was no form of trick or fraud which did not find favor in the eyes of the conspirators. I have merely cited a few cases, so conspicuous that the facts cannot be truthfully disputed, and sufficient in number to show by actual figures that the nomination of Mr. Taft could not have been procured except by their inclusion. The men responsible for the theft of the delegates in question cared not one rap for the rights or wrongs of any of the cases. They were concerned only with getting the requisite number of delegates. They did steal as many as were needed; they would have stolen as many more as might have been needed.

SULPHURIC ACID IS DASHED INTO EYES

Anaheim Boy Victim of Severe Accident While Handling Fumigating Outfit

Anaheim Gazette: Scott Coffman was badly burned about the face and chest Saturday morning by concentrated sulphuric acid. He was in a wagon at the time, and with his brother, was engaged in transferring the acid which is used for fumigating, from a drum into a carboy in the wagon, when the handle of the pot which he was lifting broke. The pot fell into the wagon and the impact caused the liquid to shoot up into his face, as he was stooping in the act of lifting the pot. He realized his danger but did not have time to evade the deadly fluid. It drenched his face, neck and upper part of his chest. His brother, R. E. Coffman, at once applied a mixture of sal soda and water which was kept near by in case of accident, to the burned area, and to this fact it is due that the burns are not more serious. A neighbor's water hose was at once brought into commission and the acid washed off the body. The boy's eyes, which he was wise enough to keep shut until the acid was washed from his face, were not injured by the acid. A doctor was immediately sent for and other treatments given. Yesterday the swelling had somewhat subsided but the burned parts are yet very tender and it will be some time before they are entirely healed.
